Selectmen Claim They Can-

For Repairs

The White triple combination pump of the Lowell fire department, damaged while in operation at the Vesper Country club fire in Tyngsboro last June, has been repaired by the White company of Boston. The bill, amounting to $635.50, was mailed to Fire Chief Saunders here, who forwarded it to the board of selectmen of Tyngsboro.

The selectmen of Tyngsboro, officials decline to pay it and the city solicitor has been asked for advice. The bill includes charges of $249.71 for materials and $385.79 for labor.

Consider Bill Improper
The letter sent Chief Saunders with the returned bill by the chairman of the Tyngsboro board of selectmen, follows:

"I am returning to you herewith the bill of the White Co. for repairs to your engine.

"The selectmen of Tyngsboro, after consideration, do not consider this bill, as such, is a proper bill for the town to pay."

Ask City Solicitor's Opinion
The letter signed by Raymond W. Sherburne, as chairman of selectmen, has been turned over with the bill to the city solicitor, who will confer with Chief Saunders.

A. O. H. CONVENTION

Favors Allowing People of Ireland to Settle Their Own
Political Destiny

WORCESTER, Aug. 28.—The committee on resolutions of the Massachusetts A.O.H. in its biennial convention today adopted resolutions in favor of allowing the people of Ireland to settle their own political destiny and in favor of the United States maintaining its position of isolation from foreign entanglements.

The resolution in Ireland is:
"Ireland, a nation free, united and independent has always been the ideal upon which the policy of the Ancient Order of Hibernians has been formed; however we recognize the right of the Irish people to determine their own form of government, having in mind that in all democratic countries the will of the majority must prevail and that the absence of majority rule means anarchy or anarchy and the ultimate ruin of the nation."

We congratulate the people of Ireland on the fact that order has been restored in their harassed country and sincerely hope that as a united and harmonious people, Ireland in a very short while will be a peaceful, prosperous and independent nation. We pledge ourselves to the people of Ireland to support and assist them in the ultimate attainment of complete and absolute independence."

LEADING LADY OF STOCK COMPANY
AT OPERA HOUSE VERY MUCH
IN LOVE WITH LOWELL

HAZEL CORINNE

A likable slip of a miss is Hazel Corinne who arrived in Lowell Sunday preparatory to commencing the fall and winter seasons as leading lady of the stock company at the Lowell Opera House. Last night, accompanied by several who will support her in her various roles, she visited the Opera House as a patron and witnessed "The Barber of Seville," the master mystery play of the decade. Another week or two and instead of witnessing the performance at the Opera House she will be on the other side of the footlights herself. And to look at her one just knows that she will prove a popular heroine in Lowell and lead her company through a successful season.

To meet Miss Corinne you wonder at first how one so youthful could have risen so well in her chosen profession. It is a generally agreed thing that it takes years for a woman to reach the position of star in stock. Often the leading women are actresses with at least two decades of footlight training in back of them. You look at Miss Corinne and sort of wonder to yourself as you unphappily guess an age of four or five and twenty.

Rut when she tells you hers is an old theatrical family, that mother and father were stars before she was born and that she had a juvenile part, not speaking of course—but nevertheless a part, when she had barely passed the tender age of two—then and not until then do you begin to understand.

A Real Down-Easter
A down-easter from Bangor by birth, Miss Corinne has spent the last several years in the south, playing most of the time in Texas and Alabama. She looks forward with a bit of apprehension to her first New England winter in several years but with old New England confidence is certain it will not bother her so much as some members of the company predict.

Miss Corinne—somehow you wish you could eliminate that "Miss" and call her Hazel—is a versatile actress who has made her mark through good setting, good living and real undying love for her work. She lost her mother as she reached the age of ten but kept playing with dad in his vaudeville act together with her sister, Sister, who was a bit older by the way, long since forsaken the footlights for a divorce and has a silver sedan, a doting husband and a potential Jackie Coogan to make life roll smoothly.

An Experienced Actress
As Hazel grew older her grace, poise and charm of manner led her to theatrical comedy which she played for about four years, then being claimed by stock—her last love and her greatest. She has always been too busy to add a husband and will tell you frankly she is too busy in her work. But you can't help but notice a but half-remembered, dreamy look in her eyes when she mentions "Sis," her hubby and her babe. Hazel's father has retired from the stage and up to a few years ago constantly accompanied her, acting as tutor in her studies as well as on the stage. Of late, however, he has turned more to the settled leisure of age. He drops in "oh, so often" to see Hazel whenever she may be playing, however.

"I have never been in Lowell before," said Miss Corinne, "but I have seen this far. I am looking forward to a most pleasant stay here and my only hope is that the people in Lowell will find me as likable as I have found them. Somehow I haven't seen a real winter for so long that though I know I may soon tire of it I'm looking forward to it. I was once real good at it and you know I shall rely on it mostly for my exercise during the season."

Keeps Posted on Sports
"I like riding but haven't had the opportunity to do much lately. I am fond of baseball and of hockey. I saw the Giants in a wonderful double header just last week and really they were pretty good after a few years of being southern and international league teams."

"I would have liked to have seen the Yankees and 'Babe' Ruth. He certainly is going to make a wonderful mark this year, isn't he?"

Anxious for Opening
Miss Corinne has all the enthusiasm of a "bud" before her debut. The opening of the season in Lowell is first on her mind and she is concentrating every effort to do at this time possible to make a hit from the start.

As you look at the wisp of a girl and realize her earnestness; as you look back at her successful past; as you look at her healthy, animated flash of anxiety on her cheeks you just know she's going to strike it rich. Lowell what Lowell wants. And somehow you know she'll be successful as you humbly wish her luck.

of the best dancing acts ever to visit Lowell.
Betty Washington, "The sweetheart of the violin," is of the demure, lovable sort as she comes out on the stage with her violin and bow. In her second appearance, hats, shoes and socks, she looks more like a woodland sprite and sure puts some of the pep with which she is overloaded right into the show.

Nathana Brothers, roller skaters, advertised as "the act that made the Shah laugh." If they should put on a performance before old Tut himself, the mummy would probably guffaw. They are a pair of wonderful skaters and with one doing the stunts and the other clowning it, they keep the audience on the verge of hysterics.

All in all, it is a sweet bill that will keep in memory for some time. This week's visitors have set a high standard for the season.

MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE
"The Rustle of Silk," a story with a different ending, is the feature of the program at the Merrimack Square theatre for the first three days of this week. The film story is derived from the novel of the same name by Cosmo Hamilton. It is a Paramount picture, directed by Herbert Brenon, and the scenes are laid in England.

Dotty Compton has the leading female part, that of "Lola de Breze," and her acting in this difficult part is exceptionally fine. Conway Tearle played a dandy part as "Fallaroy," and Anna Q. Nilsson well played the part of his frivolous wife.

Lola is the daughter of a once noble French family that has been driven to England. Lola works in a hair-dressing establishment. During the day, but dreams away of her life as back in the old castle living the life of Countess Breze, her ancestor, whose life story she has read time and time again. At this time a young member of parliament, "Arthur Fallaroy," is in the public eye and his pictures are spread throughout the land. Lola sees one of the pictures and falls in love with it. By an odd coincidence, Lola gets a position as maid to Lady Eva, Fallaroy's wife, and discovers that she is engaged to a clandestine affair with Fallaroy's enemy, Paul Chalfont, who is attempting to "break" Fallaroy through the medium of the newspaper which he owns.

Lola masquerades as a real countess and Chalfont fails to see through her impersonation. Lady Eva meets Chalfont with Lola in a restaurant and discharges the latter. While Lola is packing up her clothes, word comes that Fallaroy has been shot in her back. In getting to him, Lola drops some letters which she had written to Fallaroy but had never intended to let out of her possession. Lady Eva finds them and gives them to Chalfont for evidence in her divorce case against Fallaroy. Chalfont will take off.

There is, and it is none other than the tablet form of the pure, famous, Marmola Prescription Tablets. Dizzy Spells and High Blood Pressure
Dizzy Spells, Headache, Sleeplessness, Pains in the Head and Nervousness Indicate Dangerous Condition

Norma is the name of a purely vegetable medicine that is in great demand because it does reduce high blood pressure. Discovered by a leading Buffalo physician and successfully used for years it has only recently been offered to the public through the better class of druggists. Thousands have high blood pressure and don't know it. But the symptoms are plain, and any man or woman who has dizzy spells, shortness of breath, hot flashes and does not sleep well probably has it. High blood pressure is also indicated by nervousness, lack of appetite, a restless and restless mood, feeling. Such people's blood will help and one bottle will prove it. Many women in the changing time of life have found it the only remedy that reduces to normal the high pressure and is really helpful. A. W. Dows and reliable druggists everywhere sell Norma. font instead uses them in his newspaper. The climax comes in a way that is least expected and, contrary to the usual run of pictures, Fallaroy does not marry Lola but keeps Lady Eva as his wife and wins the high position of prime minister.

The picture travels at a good rate of speed throughout and the plot is never lost sight of. The scenes laid at the estate of Fallaroy are especially beautiful, showing that great care was taken to make the picture as real as possible. The audience at yesterday's showing of the picture were well pleased and at two or three places marked their approval by applause.

A comedy of Ghetto life in New York, "Solomon in Society," with William H. Strauss in the leading part, and a weekly news picture completes the program.

THE RIALTO THEATRE
Tonight's program at the Rialto is one that the management may well be proud of. Bert Lytell is on the bill in "The Right of Way," taken from St. Gilbert Parker's story, while James Kirkwood will star in "The Forbidden Thing."

"The Right of Way" is without doubt the finest picture in which Bert Lytell has ever appeared. He is seen as Charles Steele, a brilliant lawyer of Montreal, who is attacked in a road house and thrown into a river. Found unconscious by Jon, a backwoodsman, he is taken to a French swiftness, nursed to health, but his memory gone. Through the care of an influence an operation is performed and the knowledge of his own life returns to him, only to find that his wife, Kathleen, believing him dead, marries another. He becomes a tailor and lives amongst folks only later to be shot in protecting the property of the church.

Lionel Barrymore in "Jim the Penman" and Theodore Roberts in "The Old Homestead" are the features for tomorrow, (Wednesday). In "Jim the Penman" Barrymore is seen as a young bank cashier who takes his first plunge into forgery to save the girl he loves from disgrace. Lure of wealth, fear of prison, drive him to join an international band of wild-cat forgers whose manipulations make him rich. The law closing in on him at last, his wife's and daughter's happiness at stake, he finds a way out in a climax that will startle you.

One hardly needs to go into the merits of "The Old Homestead." It is indeed a New England institution. Everyone knows Uncle Josiah and his kindly face.

Baby Show on the North Common

With Old Sol at his best, hundreds of anxious mothers, and as many wonderful babies crowding the North common yesterday afternoon, the Baby Show under the direction of the park department, proved a big success. From early afternoon until after the show had begun, mothers and children could be seen coming from all directions to the bushy diamond which had been roped off for the occasion, and which served as a stage for the contestants. Nearly every section of the city was represented in the entries which numbered about 125.

Henry McCowan, supervisor of the North common playground, under the direction of Capt. Krenon of the park department, had charge of the affair and was assisted by the Misses Rose Brown, Doris Alexander and Agnes Maher.

The ages of the contestants ranged from one to five years. The little ones were divided into two groups, first, children able to walk, and second, those unable to walk, or in other words, children under two years of age. Eighteen prizes, nine in each division, were awarded, consisting of first, second and third prizes and six honorable mention prizes.

Max Cohen himself could not compete against Dr. Emma Slaughter and Dr. Plimack, and their assistant judges, Mrs. Margaret Higgins and Miss Catherine Sullivan, board of health nurses, in their ability for choosing the winners from hundreds of healthy, happy and lively babies who were numbered on the lists.

In the group consisting of children able to walk, first prize, a bottle of Mavis toilet water was awarded to Rita Ryan; second prize, $2 credit slip redeemable for merchandise in the baby furnishings department of the A. G. Pollard Co., awarded to the O'Connor twins; third prize, baby carriage clasps, to Arthur Leo Doris. Honorable mention prizes, baby blankets, were awarded to Richard (Chapman); John Tablin; George Bell; Virginia McKelvey; Shirley Latham and Mildred Lamier.

The winners in the second class, namely babies under two years of age, were: First prize, sleeping doll, Hurley triplets, Marguerite, Grace and Estelle; second prize, pair of ladies' silk hose, Helanda Nash; third prize, baby, Verick twins. Honorable mention prizes, baby blankets, were awarded to Paul Foley, Helen Farrell, Gerard Callahan, Catherine Ryan, Wilfred Maguire and Arthur Martin.

The local dealers who aided in the success of the affair by donating prizes were: Appleton Co. 12 baby blankets; G. C. Prince & Son, shopping doll; Moller Inc., tray; Pelletier Dry Goods Co., baby carriage clasps; A. G. ## TRUCE DECLARED IN CAT OWNERSHIP WAR

The case of the angora cat, whose ownership is disputed by Mrs. Leonie Bernabe of 115 Prince street and Mrs. Emma Gravel, is today in status quo. Mrs. Bernabe, who has the cat at present, is not satisfied with the finding of Dr. William Eaton, which is in contradiction of her claim that Kitty has three times given birth to kittens, and favorably to Mrs. Gravel, who says that the now famed angora never has kittens.

Mrs. Bernabe is going to have an expert of her own selection have a look at pussy. And if she says she agrees with Dr. Eaton she says she will then turn the cat over to Mrs. Gravel, as suggested by Clerk Edward W. Trull of the district court.

But if the new expert disagrees with Dr. Eaton, that will be another story. Mrs. Bernabe loves the cat-variant's strip which have to do with the numerous petitions before the board and in the evening hearings on the same will be held in the office of the street department. Mrs. Gravel also has the cat, and she has enlisted the services of Attorney Benj. Moloney to get Kitty back again.

The THOR'S Record in Lowell

Twelve Years of Leadership and Still Ahead

If we remember our history correctly, the claims of old Spartacus the Gladiator to leadership were based primarily on the fact that he had successfully kept the field against any and all adversaries for a period of TWELVE YEARS.

With this precedent in mind, it seems we might with equal reason claim clear supremacy for the THOR in the electric washing machine field in Lowell—where you will find in scores of home, in active use, the same THOR'S which were purchased TWELVE YEARS AGO, when we first brought Electric Washers to Lowell.

Telephone 821 and let us show you in your own home how the THOR does all the washing and all the wringing quicker and better than it could be done by any other method, and all at a cost of only a few cents an hour for electric current.

SPECIAL TOWN MEETING IN CHELMSFORD

A special town meeting was held in the town hall, Chelmsford Centre, last evening, but inasmuch as the tax rate has been declared by the assessors and the books were closed, there was no business transacted, the two articles in the warrant being referred to the regular annual town meeting. One article called for an appropriation and a loan for the erection of an addition to a school, while the other was for an appropriation for the board of health. In the course of the meeting, Chairman Sweetser of the board of assessors, was questioned relative to the announcement of the tax rate at this time and he stated that in past years, the board has been criticized for not getting the tax rate before the public at an earlier date, so this year the work was rushed along with the result that the rate was announced last Saturday.

MEMORIAL FUND CARNIVAL OPENS

The carnival that is being held under the auspices of the local street railway men's union for the purpose of raising funds to erect a memorial to William Gallagher, who died in the service of his country during the World war, was officially opened at the snow grounds at the corner of Main and Graham streets at 7 o'clock last night by Mayor John J. Donovan. A large number of grown-ups and children were present and, following a short address by the mayor, the amusements were opened and did a good business until late in the evening.

Among the entertainments at the carnival are booths where chances on blankets, dolls and other things are sold; merry-go-rounds, Ferris wheels, slide shows, and all the attractions that go with a carnival.

The carnival will continue daily until Labor day and special features have been arranged for every afternoon and evening. Today's feature will be a wild west show that promises to equal "Buffalo Bill's."

A contest for a brand new Ford touring car proved to be most popular with the crowd last night. The Ford is on exhibition and will be awarded on Labor day night.

The committee in charge of the carnival consists of the following members: Local 250, Amalgamated Association of Street and Electric Railway Employees of America, Patrick Fels, chairman; Thomas Boyle, president of the local; Daniel Primeau, Albert Dixon, Michael McGowan and Philip Hartley.

In the center is printed a portrait of the late president and over the portrait, in the upper left-hand corner, is the date of his birth, 1869. The stamps will be ready for distribution September 1 and will be placed on sale in Marion, Ohio, first. Only a limited supply will be printed and the number available for each postoffice as Lowell will be small. The stamps will not take the place of the regular two-cent stamp, but may be used in their stead as long as the supply lasts.

AMUSEMENT NOTES

melodrama of unusual interest, Jackie is the friend of all boys and girls who attend moving picture shows and he is a favorite among the younger element, while he is also admired by the grown-ups because of his cleverness.

In "Paddy" the lad is given an opportunity to fully demonstrate his talent as an actor and his powers of pathetic appeal and tragic fervor are brought out in a very satisfactory manner. Jackie is the son of a couple who are unable to get along because of the jealousy of the mother, which brings about a separation. The mother and her boy returning to the old home, a few years later the mother dies leaving the lad in the care of his grandparents, who through misfortune are forced to abandon their home and seek shelter at the poor farm. Jackie sets out all by himself and runs out in an old violin teacher, who adopts him and teaches him the first elements of the violin.

The old violin master is taken suddenly ill and inasmuch as his funds are limited, Jackie goes out to earn money on the streets by playing the violin and by chance he meets an artist who becomes deeply interested in the little fellow. Through a photograph of his mother that the little fellow carries in his pocket, he learns the truth about his parents and follows, to fully appreciate the clever work of the boy artist, one must see the picture.

The next number is "Hot Gibson," the youthful cowboy, who appears in one of his latest productions, "Out of Luck." This is a high class comedy depicting the story of a bashful lad, who is in love with a pretty country maiden. The young man gets into an unpleasant altercation with his future father-in-law and is forced to leave town. He joins the navy, but after a few days, becoming homesick, he decides to leave his resignation. What follows can be better appreciated on the screen. In this play "Hot" is at his best and demonstrates in no small manner that he is a clever comedian. This film will be enjoyed by all.

In addition there is a good comedy, "The Centaur," an interesting and mysterious series of current events as well as very enjoyable musical numbers.

OPERA HOUSE

Since time immemorial a hat has been superstitiously regarded as an omen of ill-fortune. There is a certain mysticism connected with the species that is long, floppy, and curly. It is for this reason that the Wagonwheel and Kemper production of "The Hat" by Mary Roberts Rinehart and Avery Hopwood, which is being presented to the audience at the Opera House and which has enjoyed an international success, is regarded as the greatest mystery play ever written. Once seen, the mystery of "The Hat" is solved. In this instance, assume a human form in the shape of the greatest arch criminal on record, an unprincipled assassin, intriguer, robber and destroyer of minds. To go on with the story is to destroy a confidence for the authors and the management request the audience not to divulge the solution of the mystery. The shape of future patrons will be changed in they, like ourselves, are kept in suspense until the final curtain.

The play is presented in three acts, each one more mysterious and appalling than the preceding one and all leading up to the apparently unsolvable question, "Who is the Hat?" It is not until one minute before the last curtain fall that the identity of this individual is revealed and when this does come to pass, after several tense moments of suspense, the audience knows why critics have labeled "The Hat" the greatest story of mystery ever written.

The story opens in the living room of Miss Van Gorder's Long Island home, situated two miles from a railroad. In this room, during a terrible thunder and lightning storm, a mysterious message comes through the window glass attached to a stone. It is the contents of this message that sets the audience on a suspicious mood. It demands that Miss Van Gorder remove herself and her belongings from the house immediately under penalty of death. In scene, the amiable lady decides to remain and see things through. About the same time, the Union bank is robbed and the president is reported to have died almost at the same time out west. The cashier, sweetheart of Miss Van Gorder's niece, is missing and suspicion naturally reverts to him in the guise of a gardener, he secures employment in the Van Gorder home and then things begin to happen. Shortly after midnight when the electric lights refuse to function and a flash appears in the window and also the form of a hat. More mystery and again the question, "Who is the hat?" A detective is employed to solve the problem, but the disturbances continue with added mysticism, a cold-blooded murder on the very threshold of the Van Gorder home and almost in the presence of the detective and the entire household, presenting a new angle in the difficult solution, which reaches its spectacular climax in the "third scene, the garret of the same house. A garret, especially in the quiet dead of night, is not a pleasant place and death is added, the tension is beyond comparison, and all because of a hat, or rather the hat "Who is he?"

No story would be complete without an element of love. There is a pleasing love theme in "The Hat," while the plot provides plenty of comedy and gives the audience several laughs to mingle with its surprises. The cast for the world's greatest mystery play is as follows:

SQUARE DEAL FOR GENERAL PUBLIC

Government Attorney Promises Protection for Public
Against Dishonest Business

Attacks Those Who Speculate in Foodstuffs, Promoters of Fake Stocks Etc.

MINNEAPOLIS, Aug. 28.—A promise of legal protection for the American public against dishonest business was made here today by Assistant Attorney General Seymour, in charge of anti-trust prosecutions, in addressing the National Association of Attorneys-Generals.

Without disclosing the branches of business and industry against which the government is invoking the anti-trust statutes, Mr. Seymour criticized severely those who speculate in foodstuffs, promoters of fake stocks and other securities and trade associations operating to increase commodity prices or decrease competition.

The assistant attorney-general urged greater co-operation between the states and the federal government in protecting the public against dishonest business practices and announced that Attorney-General Daugherty, to further this end, contemplated establishing an office in the department of justice, where state authorities might secure necessary information and advice.

Commenting on the slogan of "Less government in business," Mr. Seymour declared that interference was necessary only "to insure the general public a square deal and an open court whenever business men are secretly attempting to exclude others from competing in their field of activity or attempting to raise and exact exorbitant prices by artificial means." He mentioned practices of trade associations, which he said have been organized in virtually every branch of business.

Legitimate business as well as the public interest suffers from such speculation, he asserted in reference to the recent "sky-rocketing" of sugar prices which brought the government's anti-trust suit against the New York sugar markets.

"The problem of curbing speculation in the necessities of life is receiving the most careful attention of federal officials," said Mr. Seymour, "to make such business legitimate and acceptable these transactions must be eliminated which are dishonest and which reflect arbitrary and artificial prices."

Discussing the fluctuating prices of gasoline in various states, Mr. Seymour said that the "oil industry as a whole is a subject for continual observation by federal authorities and furnishes one of the most important subjects of investigation by the department of justice."

Prohibition has resulted in great benefit to the public, generally, Mr. Seymour said, in urging law observance.

FOR REORGANIZATION OF INTER-CITY TRUST

BOSTON, Aug. 28.—After a long hearing yesterday afternoon, Referee in Bankruptcy Arthur Black indicated his conditional approval of the so-called Small plan for the reorganization of the Inter-City Trust, which has been before the bankruptcy court for a year and which has valuable properties in Brookline, Lowell and in Andover.

The plan as proposed by John C. Small and sponsored by the receivers, Fred H. Williams, W. S. Thompson and Charles H. McIntyre, was opposed by Attorney W. Edwin Ulmer, as a "stockholders' proposition" which will "finally result in foreclosure of the property." It was the only plan Referee Black declared, that had any money behind it.

Mr. Ulmer at a previous hearing, had presented a plan of his own for purchasing the property and he was given opportunity to give "certain guarantees" that he would be able to carry it through. Yesterday, he was unable to produce the cash. It appeared that taxes and interest charges are costing about $65 a day.

This is a stockholders' proposition, Black said. (Lowell) is alone assessed for $300,000, declared Mr. Ulmer.

Ulmer asked for another delay in order to give him a chance to obtain assurance of $25,000 to take care of the outstanding charges, but the referee was unwilling to delay longer.

The referee declared that he did not intend to bar anybody from a chance to get together the cash, and stated that if Ulmer could get the money before the signing of the decree ordering the acceptance of the Small plan, it would of course be considered.

"That's all I want," said Attorney Ulmer.

Ulmer asked that the creditors of the Inter-City Trust be called together and trustees elected. But the referee could not see that trustees could do any more than the receivers are doing.

The Small plan presented by the receivers was not accepted by the court, who stated that there must be certain changes made before it could be agreed to. But he directed the receivers to take steps at once to "put it into consummation" and it will probably be adopted in its essential features, unless something more favorable to all parties in interest turns up within the next few days.

The proposed offer includes the payment by Small, of $15,000 to creditors, $5,000 of which is to be in cash and the balance of $10,000 is to be paid in notes in one year from the date of approval of the offer, secured by a third mortgage on the equity of all the real estate included in the transaction.

ANNEX THE NAVY YARD

The report that Dracut is to have a tax rate of upwards of $40 will probably revive the agitation for the annexation of at least a part of the town. The part that would be most beneficial to Lowell would be the Navy Yard, owing to its proximity to the business center and the ease with which it could be provided with police and fire protection as well as the city water service and sewerage.

When annexation is mentioned in reference to a particular district such as the Navy Yard, the property owners usually object on the ground that it is a speculation to look for, the valuation would be unreasonably advanced. There is no actual ground for such alarm. If the Navy Yard were annexed, it would soon experience a boom in real estate which would result in a very rapid increase in values that would benefit the property owners first and the city finally. There is plenty of vacant land in that part of Dracut that offers a splendid opportunity for development through building operations. If the advantages of the city departments, fire protection, water service and other facilities were provided, many of our people who now reside near that district would go there and build homes so that in a short time the valuation would be three or four times what it is at present. When Centralville was annexed, it very much resembled the Dracut Navy Yard at the present time, but it was soon built up so that now there is hardly a vacant lot in any of the streets. The Navy Yard would have a like experience and its residents who pay not only a high tax but also a heavy water tax, would be the chief gainers by annexation. The city might lose by the transaction for several years, but would eventually be reimbursed by the increased revenue on account of new building enterprises, as whole streets would be built up and even new schools would be required to accommodate the increased population. It might be argued that the city would be getting the worst end of the bargain; but we want more space for expansion, both residential and industrial, and the Navy Yard district offers the most convenient territory.

THE KU KLUX KLAN

Out in Carnegie, Pa., the Ku Klux Klan undertook to resist the orders of the police forbidding them to parade through a certain district without a permit. They were stopped by an automobile drawn across the path. A riot followed in which one Klansman was killed and an innocent bystander also lost his life. The latter undoubtedly the victim of a Klan bullet. The Klan are organized to deprive a large class of our citizens of their rights under the Constitution by overthrowing the principle of religious freedom. They are hypocritical humbugs, parasites on genuine Americans. There isn't and cannot be a real American among them, as they are avowed enemies of the Constitution and of the principles of the Revolutionary fathers. They shed their blood and for the preservation of which they were among the foremost to offer their lives wherever that was necessary.

How many of the Klansmen are victims of the Civil war, or the Spanish war, or the World war? We venture to say very few if any, for the reason that men who fought side by side with others of a different religious persuasion, cannot consistently turn to deprive those others of an equal share in the liberties guaranteed by the Constitution.

Recently the Klans decided to admit to their ranks certain foreign born elements, obviously those qualified by bigotry and narrowness to join a movement that cannot bear the light of day, whose convulsions are held in secret by night and whose decrees of death or burning are also issued in secret by men who, but they should be recognized, are not actually masquerading behind which they pour out words while their faces are concealed.

If they were engaged in lawful business they would have no need to wear masks of any kind or to resort to secret cabals to conceal their identity and the true character of the movement in which they are engaged. It is fortunate that the Klans are so easily broken up and that every two weeks they are a source of ridicule and scorn which does to the money and backs them to improve principles and policies based upon morality and to prevent all this as possible.

OUR GOLD RESERVE

Contrary to the general expectation, the amount of gold stored in the United States treasury has not diminished with the decline of foreign trade which has recently shown a balance against us. It was in March of this year that our treasury exceeded all expectations for the first time since 1914. With the gold reserve at $2,000,000,000, the treasury is in a position to meet any emergency that may arise. The gold reserve is a source of strength and confidence to the people and to the world. It is a source of strength and confidence to the people and to the world. It is a source of strength and confidence to the people and to the world.

A Thought

Prudence is the necessary ingredient in all the virtues, without which they degenerate into folly and excess.—Jeremy Collier.

Goats and Women

According to the ancient records of yore, goats and women were not allowed on the same level. One shepherd brought his wife there at the same time importing some goats. This created a fierce rivalry and many legal battles were waged concerning the matter. Finally it was settled that the goats must go but the wife could stay.

Safety First

A dear old lady entered a drugstore and looked doubtfully at the youthful clerk behind the counter. "I suppose," she said, "you are a properly qualified drug clerk?" "Yes, madam," the young man declared. "You have passed all your examinations?" she inquired. "Certainly," he asserted. "You have never been arrested, by mistake?" "No, to my knowledge," he replied. "Then you can give me a nickel's worth of cough drops?"

Strange Things Happen

In the removal of the cornerstone of the Baptist church at Canaan, N. H., the church having been destroyed in the fire of June 2, church records, letters, newspapers and photographs of prominent Canaan people of a half-century ago were exhibited. By a curious coincidence, Mrs. Norman J. Gaudin of Pasadena, Cal., was on her first visit to Canaan in 30 years and was present at the unearthing of her picture.

Sermon Didn't Take

"O, George," cried Ethel to her husband, "you really ought to have come to church with me this morning. Such a lovely sermon. I'm sure it would have done you good. All about the harvest and the things and the things. No one could help feeling better for it. I do wish you could have heard it. 'Really, my dear,' said George, trying to smile a waxy smile. 'And did you walk home?' 'No,' said Ethel, 'I had such a stroke of luck. The conductor forgot to tell me for my fare so I saved five cents.'"

Millions of 'Em

Bill had succeeded in getting a job in a motor factory. He did not even know himself how he got it, for he knew nothing at all about engineering. On his second day at the work he happened to meet a friend of his, who was equally ignorant. "Hello, Joe," he said. "How's business?" "O, all right," was the reply. "How are you getting on with your new job?" "Great," said Bill. "But it's terribly close work. Why do you know we have to work to a thousandth of an inch." "Lord, Bill, how many thousands are there in an inch?" "Millions, Joe—millions!"

Work for the Bride

At a wedding all went merrily until the bridegroom was called upon to produce the ring. In vain he felt in his trousers pocket for the indispensable trifle. Nothing could be found except a hole through which the ring had evidently fallen. What was he to do? Suddenly a happy thought struck the bridegroom. "Take off your shoes," he said. The bridesmaids and guests were puzzled. The bridegroom, at the bridegroom's bidding, struck up a hymn. The young man removed his shoe. The ring was found after a hole in his stocking. ## THE MAN ABOUT TOWN

Every once in a while some little thing we notice adds to the pleasure of the day and is some stranger, for the time at least, in our minds. In our afternoon, Sunday afternoon, as I walked along Merrimack street I paused to watch some young women in the road in front of the York club. I soon saw they were taking pictures. A common Sunday diversion. One girl held the camera and the other two stood by a large motor car, waiting for the car to stop. Then another girl held the camera and the process was repeated. One got a little bolder and posed alone with her hand on the door and one of the girls in the car, assuming the car was a motor car, stepped out and stood in front of the car. The girls were unaware of him or paid no heed. He smilingly stood on the steps and waited until the girls had made all the snapshots they desired and started off. Then he quickly entered the car and went on. Somehow it impressed me, his waiting for a minute or two and letting them have their fun. How many would have hurried impatiently up to the car, emitted a word and driven off, spoiling a happy holiday for the three girls.

All summer long the girls have been wearing furs around their necks, but it remained for one brave damsel to inaugurate the fur coat season yesterday. It was a warm afternoon, but this damsel, along Merrimack street, wholly indifferent to the gaze of all on her fur coat.

The city of Concord, N. H., has a rather unique way of bidding welcome to tourists. On the state highway to Concord, on the outskirts of the city, is erected a big wooden gate, which is always kept open. And a sign reads something like this: "Concord opens its gates to you and bids you welcome." The novelty makes an impression, at least it struck me that way as I motored up through there over the week-end.

Officer Liston of the liquor squad of the police department was given a surprising job last Sunday morning when he and another officer visited a certain house with a search warrant. The house had been visited at other times by the police and each time the woman in the house, named Officer Liston was warned of this, and told to be particularly solicitous about her. But, to the officer's surprise, when the door was opened and he informed the woman that he was a police officer with a search warrant, she made a jump for her face and before the officer realized the attack, his neck was scratched. Officer Liston weighs close to 200 pounds, and the woman would hardly tip the scale at 100 pounds, he says. The humor of the situation doesn't hurt him now, but the marks of the woman's nails, still on his neck.

The champion bull fighter of Spain, Enrique Robles, professionally known as Chicorro, spends his vacation in our country and gives a description of a baseball game, the first he ever attended. "The people made much noise and I would not understand what they should be so excited. A few men wearing very odd clothes, nothing like the brilliant costumes of our bull fighters, were running around and throwing a little ball and trying to hit it with a stick. It was very uninteresting. That sounds like a comment by a Man from Mars."

George Grant and Patrick Reid, two well known Centralville boys, have a surprise supply of commerce, according to their associates. A few months ago, the Grant purchased a 1913 Ford roadster just for the fun of it, he said, and last Sunday, in company with his life-long friend, he started out for New Brunswick, accompanied by the automobile, but honorable transportation and it may get them to their destination and it may not. In any event there is no denying that they have plenty of courage.

Lowellites walking along the boulevard at Hampton Beach found light at home this year. It would seem that all the Lowell had made to the famous beach over the week-end, and a stroll down the boulevard presented a splendid scene in the way of familiar faces. Among the many persons I met at the beach during a recent visit was Rev. Dr. Francis, formerly Frank Kelley of this city. He is now a member of the American order has been summering at Hampton for the past few weeks and looked hale and hearty when I saw him. During the winter he teaches in Lawrence. He is a brother of John Kelley, the well known politician who does duty in the Centralville section of the city during the day time.

Another familiar figure on the sands at Hampton last Sunday was Rev. Dr. O'Connor, former chaplain of the U. S. D. division at Camp Devens and the chaplain of the Boston police. A group of happy people were seen as especially busy on the beach, looking to the way he was being helped by the boys and girls. It is easy to understand why he made such a good hit and became so popular with the beach boys who served with him in France during the war. Dr. O'Connor met many of his old "buddies" from Lowell during his brief stay, and it was a real pleasure to see him and his faithful "buddies" and talking things over.

OPENING OF THE PAROCHIAL SCHOOLS

The parochial schools of the city will open on Monday, Sept. 10, with what is expected to be the largest enrollment in history. A feature of this year's opening will be the occupancy of the newly constructed and modern St. Michael's school in Sixth street, which will be blessed and dedicated on the afternoon of Labor day. All the parochial school openings will be informal, all the majority of cases a mass of the Holy Ghost will precede the opening.

Berton Braley's Daily Poem Concerning the Frills

The boob, he thinks he's gotta blow
His little wad to make a show;
He thinks a dame
Won't play the game
Unless he bluffs he's full of rhino.
The wise guy knows that isn't true,
That even though his plunks are few
He still can trull
With any frill,
At least the kind that I know.

"A woman hates a piker?" Yes,
That's social gospel, more or less.
She hates a gink
Who squeezes chink
Until the very eagle hollers.
But if she knows your roll is small
She don't expect you'll holl it all
Nor squander beans
Beyond your means
As if you rolled in dollars!

Be Frank and Ernest with a fluff,
Don't try to pull this wealthy stuff,
She'll find you out
Beyond a doubt
In some real subtle way or manner.
So tell her honest, like a friend,
How much you can afford to spend;
She'll gladly trull
Your pace. If not—
Well kid, you'd better call her!

RICHEST PRINCE IN INDIA

Maharaja Gaekwar of Baroda Dies in Flushing, Holland

FLUSHING, Holland, Aug. 28.—Maharaja Gaekwar of Baroda, said to be the richest prince in India, died here last night on a journey from Berlin. The Maharaja visited the United States twice and was lavishly entertained in New York and Washington. His first visit in 1904 was brief, but when he came by the way of Japan in 1919, he made a tour of the country. His son was a student at Harvard. The Maharaja was taken ill on board the train and died just before reaching Flushing.

During the Delhi Durbar in 1912 the Maharaja created a tremendous sensation by turning his back on King George at a reception. Instead of walking backward, as is customary in the presence of royalty.

During the war, however, he proved among the most loyal of the Indian princes, giving credit assistance to Great Britain.

The Gaekwar of Baroda was a descendant of one of the generals who rose to power on the ruins of the Mogul Empire in the 18th century. The Maharaja-Gaekwar is his own peculiar title, rules a state, under the dominion of the British government, of 8,000 square miles, a little larger than New Jersey, with a population of 2,000,000 and an annual revenue of $5,000,000.

The Gaekwar of Baroda outranked all native Indian princes. He was nearly 60 years old, spoke several languages and had always been considered a wise and enlightened ruler, especially interested in the education of his people and for many years a firm disbeliever in child marriages, so frequent in India.

PIES NEARLY CAUSED DEATH OF AIRMEN

SAN DIEGO, Calif., Aug. 28.—Two blackberry pies in a metal lined bucket to which was attached 50 pounds of lead nearly wrecked the hopes of Capt. Lowell H. Smith and Lieut. John Richter, who were trying for world air record in their biplane yesterday. The accident occurred about noon when the fliers, after going aloft at 5:45 o'clock and covering 750 miles at an average speed of 92.4 miles an hour, signaled for luncheon.

Another plane went aloft and made contact with Smith and Richter's craft, lowering the pies and some sandwiches. Richter was standing in the cockpit, and had grasped the bucket containing the pies when a sudden gust of wind caused the upper plane to rise up. For a few seconds Richter, clinging to the bucket, was literally suspended in mid-air. Capt. Robert C. Ervin, pilot of the contact plane, quickly whipped the nose of his plane downward and Richter settled back in his seat with the blackberry pies and sandwiches in his hands.

The airmen set a whirling pace on the 50 kilometer course, speeding at 92 miles an hour all day in their effort to break the world's endurance, distance and speed records for 2500 kilometers and over.

Food, including oil and food were taken aboard in mid-air with consummate skill and almost incredible rapidity.

MRS. BUTLER'S ACHEs AND PAINS

Vanished After Using Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

W. Philadelphia, Pa.—"When I cleaned house last April I must have overfitted, for after that I had pains and aches all the time and was so discouraged, I could hardly do my own housework, and I could not carry a basket of groceries from the store nor walk even four or five squares without getting terrible pains in my back and abdomen and lower limbs.

I went to visit a friend in Mt. Holly, N. J., and she said, 'Mrs. Butler, why don't you take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound?' My husband said that if it did her so much good for the same trouble, I should try it. So I have taken it and it is doing me good. Whenever I feel heavy or bad, it puts me right on my feet again. I am able to do my work with pleasure and am getting strong and stout. I still take the Vegetable Compound and Liver Pils, and am using Lydia E. Pinkham's Sensitive Wash." ## REPARATIONS NOTE

LONDON, Aug. 27.—(By the Associated Press)—Belgium's contribution to the latest diplomatic exchange on the reparations question was handed to Sir George Grahame, British ambassador at Brussels, this morning, and will be sent by courier to London, arriving here tonight. Copies will probably be distributed direct from Brussels to Prime Minister Baldwin and Foreign Secretary Curzon, who are spending brief vacations in France.

The text of the note, it is understood, will be published in Brussels tomorrow morning. It is understood that while it is more conciliatory in tone than the French note, it emphasizes the loyalty of the Ruhr occupation and seeks to justify Belgium's policy to reparations on moral and historic grounds, asserting that Belgium thus far has received indemnification only slightly in excess of that received by Great Britain.

MAYOR AND BOARD OF HEALTH NOTIFIED OF MEETING AT STATE HOUSE TOMORROW

(Special to the Sun)
BOSTON, Aug. 28.—The mayor and board of health of Lowell have been officially notified of the meeting, which the legislative committee on state administration is to hold at the state house tomorrow morning. This committee has been making an extended study of the tuberculosis situation and wishes opinions from Lowell authorities and officials. Among the questions which will be considered at tomorrow's session are the following: Whether the state should take over the administration of any or all of the county tuberculosis sanatoria. Whether the state should turn over any of the state tuberculosis sanatoria to the counties. Whether any change should be made in the maintenance of municipal tuberculosis hospitals, such as affecting subsidies or standards or with reference to any rearrangement of county or state sanatoria. Whether cities now required by law to maintain tuberculosis hospitals should be exempted. Whether certain counties now exempted by law from maintaining tuberculosis hospitals should be required to do so. Whether the state sanatorium at Rutland should be given over to the treatment of children and the Westfield sanatorium turned over to the counties in that section of the state. Whether the Essex county tuberculosis hospital district should be extended to include all of the cities in the county. Whether a sanatorium or hospital should be set aside for the treatment of non-pulmonary tuberculosis.

Whether legislation should be enacted looking to the extension of preventive measures against tuberculosis such as fresh air camps or preventoria for pre-tubercular children. The committee in the course of its investigation has visited state, county and municipal tuberculosis hospitals throughout the commonwealth. The investigation came about through the filing of bills during the last session of the legislature, providing that the state take over the county tuberculosis hospitals, and reports submitted by the state department of health recommending a rearrangement of state and county tuberculosis hospitals and setting aside of one institution for the treatment of non-pulmonary, or surgical tuberculosis. Action for a change in the administration of some of the tuberculosis hospitals arose partly from the protest made by representatives of a number of small towns in Essex county which objected to being compelled to bear the entire cost of the new tuberculosis sanatorium at Middleton, erected by the Essex county commissioners at a cost of upward of $1,600,000. The cities of Haverhill, Lawrence, Lynn, Salem and Newburyport in Essex county which now maintain hospitals or hospital wards for the treatment of tuberculosis are exempted by law from contribution to the cost or maintenance of a county tuberculosis hospital. Under an assessment levied by the county commissioners recently, the city of Beverly alone is called upon to pay $265,000 as its share of the cost of the hospital.

ATTORNEY FOR ALLEGED SLAYER OF POLICE OFFICER BELIEVES HE IS INNOCENT

Attorney Daniel J. Donahue, counsel for Barney Banks, who is being held for the murder of Police Officer Arthur J. Bower of Methuen, will have another conference with his client in the Lawrence jail this afternoon to clear up a few details over which there is some doubt. It is now understood that there is only one thing, and that authorities will not disclose, at present that tends to connect Banks in any way with the happening on the boulevard when Officer Bower met death, excepting of course, Banks' own story. But he has told so many different stories, and implicated so many different people whom he afterwards absently exonerated, that little credence is now placed in any of the stories he has told. There is hardly any possibility, either of Banks' counsel basing a defense upon insanity. Two specialists have already examined Banks, one for the defense and one for the government, and their reports will be made when the case is called on a continuance in the Lawrence district court Friday morning. While the finding of the specialists is not known yet, there is a feeling that the reports will be to the effect that Banks is a man whose mind has not developed in keeping with his years, and that the reason for his telling so many different stories was because he lacks a sense of responsibility and could not foresee the consequences. Attorney Donahue is now more hopeful than ever that Banks had nothing to do with the actual killing of Officer Bower. There may be some developments between now and Friday, the day scheduled for Banks' hearing, which may entirely change the present situation. Attorney Donahue may also have a conference today with the state police officers who are working on a new clue, to the effect that early on the morning of the murder a man whose head was bandaged was about to be loaded in a motor in the vicinity of Lowell. The injured man was in an auto, with other men, and the doctor was called away before he could make an examination, by a friend, who said something to this effect: "Come away from those fellows, they're gun men." That is the information which has been given the State Officers Richard J. Griffin of Haverhill and William B. Murray of Lynn, who was working on the case in conjunction with Chief James Riley of the Methuen police department. Chief Riley is optimistic and says that the net is slowly closing in. Yesterday Dr. Victor Blue of the Danvers state hospital for the insane, made an examination of Banks at the jail, but stated that he might visit Banks again before preparing his report for submission to the court. The board of selectmen of Methuen, at a meeting last night, voted to advertise a reward of $1000 for information leading to the arrest of the murderer of Officer Bower.

ident and expressed confidence in President Coolidge. History, he said, would give to President Harding the credit and justice to which he is fully entitled and which was not accorded to him in proper measure during his lifetime. "The value of political equity is already skilled," said Senator Lodge. "The sneaking criticism of those who take not only all knowledge but all righteousness for their province is lashed and we must remember that history will do justice and in calmness set all things even. But even now it is not too soon to say that I have never seen a man in high office beset as our president was by endless clamor and forced by countless appeals and small and small who met all difficulties in a spirit so purely disinterested as President Harding. He thought only of what his duty was and what he believed to be for the best interests of the American people whom he loved."

Heard Miners' Side Yesterday

Issues without a stoppage in coal supply. Governor Pinchot has held his peace. His attitude, he said, so far is that of an official who is first hearing objections from all concerned. At the second meeting with the union leaders, which will come late today, it is suggested that he may take the initiative and offer a compromise upon which he will ask their views. The governor's call for an eleventh hour conference, issued after the union notices had come out for a suspension of work, brought before him exactly the same men who have faced each other fruitlessly in negotiations of greater or less duration on three occasions during the past six months. They were S. D. Warriner, A. R. Jessup, W. J. Richards and W. W. Ingalls, for the general policy committee of anthracite miners and Philip Murray, vice president of the United Mine Workers and Rinaldo Cappellini, C. J. Golden and Thomas Kennedy, the union's three anthracite district presidents. John Lewis, president of the union, left Atlantic City last night for Philadelphia where he is at a hotel with his family. Mr. Lewis is slightly indisposed.

The viewpoints of the miners and operators brought to Governor Pinchot's attention after likewise were unchanged. One of the union's demands has been a 20 per cent. pay increase and $2 per day for day employees, and seeking the "check-off" system for collective dues, has only one relative compromise offer standing. That calls for the continuing of the "check-off" demand by the operators, their acceptance of the principle that wage increases are necessary and their abolition of all but eight hour day employment. With these concessions, it was said, the union of 60,000 men would agree to work while negotiations resumed.

Underaker for Republicans

LONDON, Aug. 28.—Although the newspaper correspondents which made the rounds of the polling places in Dublin yesterday found that most of the voters did not care to say to which candidate they had given their ballot, the representative of the Times threatened exception. This was a man who announced that he had voted for the republican nominee, and when asked why, said: "I'm an underaker and they do the most good for me trade."

When searched at the police station a bunch of keys, $5 in money and a jewelry box were found on him. The jewelry box was later identified by the owner of the tenement, as was also a watch which was found on Casale. Casale denied taking the articles, saying that he went to the tenement with some other men and that while there they turned the articles over to him and left the place. An automobile found on Adams street and which is said to be the property of Casale, was also seized by the police last night.

Other Offenders

John Mitchell pleaded not guilty to a charge of threatening Federal Officer John Hall and at the request of Attorney Max Goldman for the defense, a continuance was granted until Thursday. Attorney Goldman filed a motion for a bill of particulars, which was allowed, with the exception that complainant be not required to furnish names of witnesses. Joseph Corbin was charged with driving an auto while under the influence of liquor, and as he had previously been fined $50 in superior court on a similar complaint, the judge imposed a sentence of one month in the house of correction. For drunkenness he was fined $5. He appealed and was held in jail.

elaborate organization to save the eastern and middle Atlantic states from suffering in the event the threatened suspension of anthracite mining is carried out September 1. The meeting was held at the Hotel Adlon in Washington here today, at a conference with representatives of the governors of eleven states, the coal-carrying railroads, the United States bureau of mines and various other agencies. Mr. Wadsworth called the meeting to order shortly before 11 o'clock and laid before the 50 or more representatives the plan, which had been worked out in the main by James C. Brydon, president of the bituminous operators association. The program outlined had two important phases. First, affecting smooth distribution throughout the affected area of such anthracite coal as is available, of bituminous coal, and of fuel oil and other substitutes for the regular anthracite supply. Second, inauguration of a widespread campaign of education to induce the public to conserve fuel and to teach them how to use substitute fuels. One of the suggestions, it was reported, was that the United States bureau of mines send engineers to various communities to meet dealers, consumers and civil officials and offer expert advice on the use of substitute fuels. Contrary to earlier reports, the conference was not attended in person by governors of any of the states involved. All, however, sent representatives authorized to act for them.

Foreign Minister Jaspars asserts that "the whole problem of reparations and the question of inter-allied debts are definitely bound together" and he proposes a new method of procedure in the negotiations, suggesting conversations among the allies "without reverting to the old system of conferences." M. Jaspars remarks that if a reduction in Germany's debt is necessary, the balance she is obliged to pay ought to apply to material damages only. This must be understood as meaning the elimination of pensions from the allied claims on Germany, thus reducing takes years for a woman to reach the position of star in stock. Often the leading women are actresses with at least two decades of footling acting in back and forth of the stage. Miss Corinne, on the other hand, is a young woman of four or five and twenty.

But when she tells you here is an old theatrical family, that mother and daughter were actors before she was born and that she had a juvenile part, not speaking of course—but nevertheless a part, when she had barely passed the tender age of two—then and not until then do you begin to understand.

A Real Down-Buster
A down-buster from Banner by birth, Miss Corinne has spent the last several years in the south, playing most of the time in Texas and Alabama. She looks forward with a bit of apprehension to her first engagement in Lowell in several years but with old New England confidence is certain it will not bother her so much as some members of the company predict.

Miss Corinne—somehow you wish you could eliminate that "Miss" and call her Hazel—is a versatile actress who has made her mark through good acting, good living and real understanding for her work. She lost her mother as she reached the age of ten but kept playing with dad in his vaudeville act together with her sister, Sister, who was a bit older by the way, long since passed the footlights for a brocade and has a flapper sedan, a dining room and a potential Jackie Coogan to make life roll smoothly.

An Experienced Actress
As Hazel grew older her grace, poise and charm of manner led her to musical comedy which she played for about four years, then being claimed by a husband and will tell you frankly she is too busy in her work. Yet you can't help but notice a bit of half-enclosed, dreaming look in her eyes when she mentions "Sis," her hubby and her baby. Hazel's father has returned from the stage and up to a few years ago constantly accompanied her, acting as tutor in her studies as well as on the stage. Of late, however, he has turned more to the settled life of a doctor. He drops in "oh, so often" to see Hazel wherever she may be playing, however.

"I have never been in Lowell before," said Miss Corinne, "I know that I shall like it from what I have seen that for I am looking forward to a most pleasant play here and my only hope is that the people in Lowell will find me as likable as I have found them. Somehow I haven't seen a real winter for so long that though I know I may enjoy it, it is looking forward to skating. I was once real good at it and you know I shall only be mostly for my exercise during the season."

Keeps Posing on Sports
"I like riding but haven't had the opportunity to do much lately. I am fond of baseball and of hockey. I saw the giants in a wonderful double-header just last week and really they sure looked good after a few years of seeing southern and international teams."

"I would have liked to have seen the Yankees and St. Louis. He certainly is going to make a wonderful mark this year, isn't he?"

Anxious for Opening
Miss Corinne has all the enthusiasm of a "bad" before her debut. The opening of the season in Lowell is first on her mind and she is concentrating every effort to do all that is possible to make it all the more a success. As you look at the slip of a girl and realize her earnestness, as you look back at her successful past, as you look at the healthy, animated flush of anxiety on her cheeks you just know she's going to strive to give Lowell what Lowell wants and needs. How you know she'll be successful as you humbly wish her luck.

AMUSEMENT NOTES

B. P. KATH'S THEATRE
With one of the best vaudeville bills ever shown here—a show that would give with many of the actors' benefits often seen around New York—B. P. Kath's theatre opened the new season last night to a first class crowd. The picture, "Masters of Men," is well above the standard. It deals with the development of the American youth from school days to maturity and the life of a man who has a Spanish war setting.

It is a story of love, life at sea, the heroic qualities of a young man, and the qualities of a young woman who believe they love the same man. The plot is interwoven with such infinite skill that interests runs high from the start of the film to the "five-foot kiss" that ends the bill. The usual pathos weekly film is shown, supported by an animated cartoon and "Topics of the Day."

"The Barber of Seville" is the featured offering of the vaudeville bill and is put over well. The patter is funny and the barbers make quite some quarters when they make known their art of the trade.

Joe Hall, billed as "The extemporaneous" who made a hit with his rooster remarks and was forced to respond to several queries. He closed for his partners from the audience as to what he should rhyme about and the attempts of the gallant poets to embarrass him only added to his act.

Miss Elaine, formerly with McNamee's Theatre, proved herself to be a real gem. With her was Henry J. McNamee, a comedian of "The Big Show," "I Want to Linger," "Linger," and other song hits. He and Miss Elaine make an admirable team.

Pat, Corky and Pamela DeLaur presented a "Cycle of Revue songs." They are a great team that kept the eyes of the audience glued to the stage while they act is on. Sixty minutes without action and of the best dancing acts ever to visit Lowell.

Betty Washington, "the sweetheart of the violin," is of the demure, lovable sort as she comes out on the stage with her violin and bow. In her second appearance, sang, shoes and socks, she looks more like a woodland sprite and puts some of the pep with which she is overloaded right into the show.

Nathano Brothers, roller skaters, advertised as "the act that made the Shook laugh," if they should put on a performance before old Tut himself, the numbers would probably guffaw. They are a pair of wonderful skaters and with one doing the stunts and the other clowning it, they keep the audience on the verge of hysterics.

MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE
"The Rustle of Silk," a story with a different ending, is the feature of the program at the Merrimack Square theatre for the first three days of this week. The film story is derived from the novel of the same name by Cosmo Hamilton. It is a Paramount picture, directed by Herbert Brenson, and the scenes are laid in England.

Betty Corinne has the leading female part, that of "Lola de Broze," and her acting in this difficult part is exceptionally fine. Conway Tearle played a diminished part as "Fallaroy," and Anna Q. Nilsson well played the part of his rivalrous wife.

Lola is the daughter of a once noble French family that has been driven to England. Lola works in a dress-making establishment. During the day, but before the advent of her own, she is back in the old castle living the life of Countess Broze, her ancestor, whose life story she has read time and time again. At this time a young member of parliament, "Arthur Fallaroy," is in the public eye and his pictures are spread throughout the land. Lola sees one of the pictures and falls in love with it. By an odd coincidence, Lola gets a position as maid to Lady Fro, Fallaroy's wife, and discovers that she is carrying on a clandestine affair with Fallaroy's enemy, Paul Chalfont, who is attempting to "break" Fallaroy through the medium of the newspaper which he owns.

Lola masquerades as a real countess and Chalfont fails to see through her impersonation. Lady Fro meets Chalfont with Lola in a restaurant and discharges the latter. While Lola is packing up her clothes, word comes that Fallaroy has been shot. In her haste to get to him, Lola drops some letters which she had written to Fallaroy, but had never intended to let out of her possession. Lady Fro finds them and gives them to Chalfont for evidence in her divorce case against Fallaroy. Chalfont will take off.

font instead uses them in his newspaper. The climax comes in a way that is least expected and, contrary to the usual run of pictures, Fallaroy does not marry Lola but keeps Lady Fro as his wife and wins the high position of prime minister.

The picture travels at a good rate of speed throughout and the plot is never lost sight of. The scenes laid at yesterday's showing of the picture were well pleased and at two or three places marked their approval by applause.

A comedy of Ghetto life in New York, "Solomon in Society," with William H. Strauss in the leading part, and a weekly news picture completes the program.

THE RIALTO THEATRE

Tonight's program at the Rialto is one that the management may well be proud of. Bert Lytell is on the bill in "The Right of Way," taken from Sir Gilbert Parker's story, while James Cagney will star in "The Forbidden Thing."

"The Right of Way" is without doubt the finest picture in which Bert Lytell has ever appeared. He is seen as Charles Steele, a brilliant lawyer of Montreal, who is attacked in a mad house and thrown into a river. Found unconscious by Joe, a backwoodsman, he is taken to a French settlement, nursed to health, but his memory gone. Through the cure's influence an operation is performed and the knowledge of his own life returns to him, only to find that his wife, Kathleen, believing him dead, married another. He becomes a tailor and lives amongst folks only later to be shot in protecting the property of the church.

Lyonel Barrymore in "Jim the Penman" and Theodore Roberts in "The Old Homestead" are the features for tomorrow (Wednesday).

In "Jim the Penman" Barrymore is seen as a young bank cashier who takes his first plunge into forgery to save the girl he loves from disgrace.

Lure of wealth, fear of prison, drive him to join an international band of wild-carders whose manipulations make him rich. The law closing in on him at last, his wife and daughter's happiness at stake, he finds a way out in a climax that will startle you.

One hardly needs to go into the merits of "The Old Homestead." It is indeed a New England institution. Everyone knows Uncle Josh and his kindly face.

This night will be formed children's week at the Strand theatre, for Jackie Coogan, the boy film star appears in his famous new vehicle, "Daddy," a

Twelve Years of Leadership and Still Ahead

If we remember our history correctly, the claims of old Spartacus the Gladiator to leadership were based primarily on the fact that he had successfully kept the field against any and all adversaries for a period of TWELVE YEARS.

With this precedent in mind, it seems we might with equal reason claim clear supremacy for the THOR in the electric washing machine field in Lowell—where you will find in scores of home, in active use, the same THORS which were purchased TWELVE YEARS AGO, when we first brought Electric Washers to Lowell.

Telephone 821 and let us show you in your own home how the THOR does all the washing and all the wringing quicker and better than it could be done by any other method, and all at a cost of only a few cents an hour for electric current.

SPECIAL TOWN MEETING IN CHELMSFORD

A special town meeting was held in the town hall, Chelmsford Centre, last evening. But inasmuch as the tax rate has been declared by the assessors and the books were closed, there was no business transacted, the two articles in the warrant being referred to the regular annual town meeting. One article called for an appropriation and a loan for the erection of an addition to a school, while the other was for an appropriation for the board of health. In the course of the meeting, Chairman Sweetser of the board of assessors, was questioned relative to the announcement of the tax rate at this time and he stated that in past years the board has been criticized for not getting the tax rate before the public at an earlier date, so this year the work was rushed along with the result that the rate was announced last Saturday.

MEMORIAL FUND CARNIVAL OPENS

The carnival that is being held under the auspices of the local street railway men's union for the purpose of raising funds to erect a memorial to William Gallacher, who died in the service of his country during the World War, was officially opened at the show grounds at the corner of Moore and Gorham streets at 7 o'clock last night by Mayor John J. Donovan. A large number of grown-ups and children were present and, following a short address by the mayor, the amusement were opened and did a good business until late in the evening.

Among the entertainments at the carnival are booths where chances on blankets, dolls and other things are sold; merry-go-rounds, Ferris wheels, slide shows, and all the attractions that go with a carnival.

The carnival will continue daily until Labor day and special features have been arranged for every afternoon and evening. Today's feature will be a wild west show that promises to equal "Buffalo Bill."

A contest for a brand new Ford touring car proved to be most popular with the crowd last night. The Ford is on exhibition and will be awarded on Labor day night.

The committee in charge of the carnival consist of the following members: Local 250, Amalgamated Association of Street and Electric Railway Employees of America, Patrick F. Keane, chairman; Thomas J. Keane, president of the local; Dan J. Keane, Albert Dixon, Michael Metcalfe and Philip Hartley.

HARDING MEMORIAL TWO-CENT STAMPS

Postmaster Xavier A. Delisle has requisitioned the postoffice department for a supply of Harding memorial two-cent stamps and will put the same on sale at the stamp window of the local postoffice as soon as they are received.

The stamp is the regular size and is printed in black, with a band of black around the edges. In the center is printed a portrait of the late president and over the portrait, in the upper left-hand corner, is the date of his birth, 1869. The date of his death, 1923, is in the upper right-hand corner.

The stamps will be ready for distribution September 1 and will be placed on sale in Marion, Ohio, first. Only a limited supply will be printed and the number available for each postoffice as Lowell will be small. The stamps will not take the place of the regular two-cent stamp, but may be used in their stead as long as the supply lasts.

AMUSEMENT NOTES

melodrama of unusual interest. Jackie is the friend of all boys and girls who attend moving picture shows and he is a favorite among the younger element, while he is also admired by the grown-ups because of his cleverness.

In "Daddy" the lad is given an opportunity to fully demonstrate his talent as an actor and his powers of pathetic appeal and tragic fervor are brought out in a very satisfactory manner. Jackie is the son of a couple who are unable to get along because of the jealousy of the mother, which brings about a separation. The mother and her boy returning to the old home, a few years later, the mother dies leaving the lad in the care of the grandparents, who through misfortune are forced to abandon their home and seek shelter at the poor house. Jackie sets out all by himself and runs across an old violin teacher, who adopts him and teaches him the first elements of the violin.

The old violin master is taken suddenly ill and inasmuch as his funds are limited, Jackie goes out to earn money on the streets by playing the violin and by chance he meets an artist who becomes deeply interested in the little fellow. Through a photograph of his mother that the artist finds in his pocket, he locates his father and a happy reunion follows. To fully appreciate the clever work of the boy artist, one must see the picture.

The next number is Hot Gibson, the youthful cowboy, who appears in one of his latest productions, "Out of Luck." This is a high class comedy depicting the story of a bashful lad, who is in love with a pretty country maiden. The young man gets into an unpleasant altercation with his future father-in-law and is forced to leave town. He joins the navy, but after a few days, becoming homesick, enlists in the army. His resignation, which follows can be better appreciated on the screen. In this play foot is at his best and demonstrates in no small manner that he is a clever comedian. This film will be enjoyed by all.

In addition there is a good comedy of the country type, an interesting and instructive series of current events, as well as very enjoyable musical numbers.

OPERA HOUSE

Since time immemorial a bat has been superstitiously regarded as an omen of ill-luck. There is a certain mysticism connected with the species that is universal almost everywhere. It is for this reason that the Wagonwheels and Kemper production of "The Bat" by Mary Roberts Rinehart and Avery Hopwood, which is being presented to large audiences at the Opera House and which has enjoyed an international success, is regarded as the greatest mystery play ever written. Once seen, never forgotten. That "The Bat," which in this instance, assumes a human form in the shape of the greatest arch-criminal on record, an unprincipled assassin, intriguer, robber and destroyer of minds. To go on with the story is to destroy a confidence for the authors and the management request the audience not to discuss the solution of the mystery. The pleasure of future patrons will be enhanced if they, like ourselves, are kept in suspense until the final curtain.

The play is presented in three acts, each one more mysterious and appalling than the preceding one and all leading up to the apparently unanswerable question, "Who is the Bat?" It is not until one minute before the last curtain fall that the identity of this individual is revealed and when this does come to pass, after several tense moments of suspense, the audience knows why critics have labeled "The Bat" the greatest story of mystery ever written.

The story opens in the living room of Miss Van Gorder's Long Island home, situated two miles from a railroad. In this room, during a terrific thunder and lightning storm, a mysterious message comes through the window glass attached to a stone. It is the contents of this message that first agitates the audience in a suspicious mood. It demands that Miss Van Gorder remove herself and her belongings from the house immediately under penalty of death. Being a brave soul, the amiable lady decides to remain and see things through. About the same time, the Union bank is robbed and the president is reported to have died almost at the same time out west. The cashier, sweetheart of Miss Van Gorder's niece, is missing and suspicion naturally reverts to him. In the guise of a gardener, he secures employment in the Van Gorder home and their things begin to happen. Shortly after midnight when the electric lights refuse to function and the house is clothed in darkness, a flash appears in the window and also the form of a bat. More mystery! and again the question, "Who is the bat?" A detective is employed to solve the problem, but the disturbances continue with added mysticism, a cold-blooded murder on the very threshold of the Van Gorder home and almost in the presence of the detective and the wife of the household, presenting a new angle in the difficult solution, which reaches its spectacular climax in the third scene, the garret of the same house. A parrot, especially in the quiet dead of night, is not a pleasant place anywhere, but when a murder, robbery and death are added, the tension is beyond comparison, and all because of a bat, or rather the bat—"Who is he?"

No story would be complete without an element of love. There is a pleasant love theme in "The Bat" while it would provide plenty of comedy and gives the audience several laughs to mingle with its surprises. The cast for the world's greatest mystery play is as follows:

The building is owned by Louis Price.

SQUARE DEAL FOR GENERAL PUBLIC

Government Attorney Promises Protection for Public Against Dishonest Business

Attacks Those Who Speculate in Foodstuffs, Promoters of Fake Stocks Etc.

MINNEAPOLIS, Aug. 28.—A promise of legal protection for the American public against dishonest business was made here today by Assistant Attorney General Seymour, in charge of anti-trust prosecutions, in addressing the National Association of Attorneys-Generals.

Without disclosing the branches of business and industry against which the government is invoking the anti-trust statutes, Mr. Seymour criticized severely those who speculate in foodstuffs, promoters of fake stocks and other securities and trade associations operating to increase commodity prices or decrease competition.

The assistant attorney-general urged greater co-operation between the states and the federal government in protecting the public against dishonest business practices, and announced that Attorney-General Daugherty, to further this end, contemplated establishing an office in the department of justice, where state authorities might secure necessary information and advice.

Commenting on the slogan of "Less government in business," Mr. Seymour declared that interference was necessary only "to insure the general public a square deal and an open court whenever business men are secretly attempting to exclude others from competition in their field of activity or attempting to raise and exact exorbitant prices by artificial means." He mentioned practices of trade associations, which he said have been organized in virtually every branch of business.

Legitimate business as well as the public interest suffers from such speculation, he asserted in reference to the recent "sky-rocketing" of sugar prices which brought the government's anti-trust suit against the New York sugar markets.

"The problem of curbing speculation in the necessities of life is receiving the most careful attention of federal officials," said Mr. Seymour, "to make such exchanges legitimate and useful enterprises that transactions must be eliminated which are fictitious and which reflect arbitrary and artificial prices."

Discussing the fluctuating prices of gasoline in various states, Mr. Seymour said that the "oil industry as a whole is a subject for continual observation by federal authorities and furnishes one of the most important subjects of investigation by the department of justice."

Prohibition has resulted in great benefit to the public, generally, Mr. Seymour said, in urging law observance.

FOR REORGANIZATION OF INTER-CITY TRUST

BOSTON, Aug. 28.—After a long hearing yesterday afternoon, Referee in Bankruptcy Arthur Black indicated his conditional approval of the so-called Small plan for the reorganization of the Inter-City Trust, which has been before the bankruptcy court for a year, and which has valuable properties in Brookline, Lowell and in Andover.

The plan as proposed by John C. Small and sponsored by the receivers, Fred H. Williams, W. S. Thompson and Charles H. McIntyre, was opposed by Attorney W. Edwin Ulmer, as a "stockholders' proposition" which will "finally result in foreclosure of the property." It was the only plan Referee Black declared, that had any money behind it.

Mr. Ulmer at a previous hearing, had presented a plan of his own for purchasing the property and he was given opportunity to give "certain guarantees" that he would be able to carry it through. Yesterday, he was unable to produce the cash. It appeared that taxes and interest charges are costing about $65 a day.

"This is a stockholders' proposition," Black said (Lowell) is now assessed for $300,000," declared Mr. Ulmer. Ulmer asked for another delay in order to give him a chance to obtain assurance of $25,000 to take care of the outstanding charges, but the referee was unwilling to delay longer.

The referee declared that he did not intend to bar anybody from a chance to get together the cash, and stated that if Ulmer could get the money before the signing of the decree ordering the acceptance of the Small plan, it would of course be considered.

"That's all I want," said Attorney Ulmer.

Ulmer asked that the creditors of the Inter-City Trust be called together and trustees elected. But the referee could not see that trustees could do any more than the receivers are doing.

The Small plan presented by the receivers was not accepted by Ulmer, who stated that there must be certain changes made before it could be agreed to. But he directed the receivers to take steps at once to "put it into consummation" and it will probably be adopted in its essential features, unless something more favorable to all parties in interest turns up within the next few days.

The proposed offer includes the payment of Small, of $15,000 to creditors, $500 of which is to be in cash and the balance of $10,000 is to be paid in notes in one year from the date of approval of the offer, secured by a third mortgage on the equities of the real estate included in the transaction.

RICHEST PRINCE IN INDIA

Maharaja Gackwar of Baroda Dies in Flushing, Holland

FLUSHING, Holland, Aug. 28.—Maharaja Gackwar of Baroda, said to be the richest prince in India, died here last night on a journey from Berlin. The Maharaja visited the United States twice and was lavishly entertained in New York and Washington. His first visit in 1906 was brief, but when he came by the way of Japan in 1910, he made a tour of the country. The Maharaja was taken ill on board the train and died just before reaching Flushing.

During the Delhi Durbar in 1912 the Maharaja created a tremendous sensation by turning his back on King George at a reception, instead of walking backward, as is customary in the presence of royalty.

During the war, however, he proved among the most loyal of the Indian princes, giving great assistance to Great Britain.

The Gackwar of Baroda was a descendant of one of the generals who rose to power on the ruins of the Mogul Empire in the 18th century. The Maharaja-Gackwar is his own peculiar title, rules a state, under the dominion of the British government, of 800 square miles, a little larger than New Jersey, with a population of 2,000,000 and an annual revenue of $5,000,000.

The Gackwar of Baroda outranked all native Indian princes. He was nearly 60 years old, spoke several languages and had always been considered a wise and enlightened ruler, especially interested in the education of his people and for many years a firm disbeliever in child marriages, so frequent in India.

MINSTREL SHOW AT NABNASSET POND

The annual minstrel show by the boys of the Y.M.C.A. camp at Nabnasset pond was held last night at the camp, under the shelter of the pine trees. The performance was attended by fully 300 parents and relatives of the boys and was proclaimed even more successful than last year's show.

Prior to the performance an exhibition of natural history collections was shown and prizes awarded for the best collections. The first prize, a silver cup, was awarded William Trull; second prize, donated by Harry Pollard, was awarded Walter Abner; and third prize, given by H. Hutchins Parker, was won by Paul Winter. The judges were Harry Pollard, H. Hutchins Parker and Harold E. Howe, general secretary of the Y.M.C.A.

Shortly after dark, gasoline torches were lighted and the opening strains of the program to the minstrel show were sounded. Dr. Roy Courtney was intercomedian and Harry Sargent accompanied on the piano. The first number was "Barney Google," the solo being sustained by Archie Picken. Kenneth Keith sang the second number, "Hey, Ho, You Want Any Coffee?"

Only Mackenel, a solo by Paul Winter was the next soloist and his song was "Out Yourself a Piece of Cake and Make Yourself at Home." "Looka Last Mammy" was next and was sung by Edward Sever.

As a special number, Aubert Guerin sang two selections and an entire Mr. Guerin is a well known soloist and his singing was greatly appreciated by the audience.

Several saxophone solos were rendered by Richard Guilmy and the next number was "Swanee" sung by Herbert Robbins, assisted by a chorus "Pineapples."

Following this came the feature of the evening was sung. It was a duet by Herbert Robbins and Edward Sever and was entitled, "Weep and the World Weeps With You. The final solo was "Wanted" sung by Everett Fernald and the program was brought to a close by the singing of "Shouldn't Camp Nabnasset Be Forgotten" by the chorus.

PIES NEARLY CAUSED DEATH OF AIRMEN

SAN DIEGO, Calif., Aug. 28.—Two blackberry pies in a metal lined bucket to which was attached 50 pounds of lead nearly wrecked the hopes of Capt. Lowell H. Smith and Lieut. John Richter, who were testing for world air record here yesterday. The incident occurred about noon when the fliers, after going aloft at 6:04 o'clock and covered 750 miles at an average speed of 22.44 miles an hour, signalled for luncheon.

Another plane went aloft and made contact with Smith and Richter's craft, lowering the pies and some sandwiches. Richter was standing in the cockpit, and had grasped the bucket containing the pies when a sudden gust of wind caused the upper plane to rise up. For a few seconds Richter, clinging to the bucket, was literally suspended in mid-air. Capt. Robert C. Erwin, pilot of the contact plane, quickly whipped the nose of his plane downward and Richter settled back in his seat with the blackberry pies and sandwiches in his hands.

The aviators set a whirling pace on the 50 kilometer course, speeding at 92 miles an hour all day in their effort to break the world's endurance, distance and speed records for 2500 kilometers and over.

Fuel, lubricating oil and food were taken aboard in mid-air with consummate skill and almost incredible rapidity.

MRS. BUTLER'S ACHES AND PAINS

Vanished After Using Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

W. Philadelphia, Pa.—"When I cleaned house last April I must have overfired, for after that I had pains and aches all the time and was so discouraged, I could hardly do my own housework, and I could not carry a basket of groceries from the store nor walk even four or five squares without getting terrible pains in my back and abdomen and lower limbs.

I went to visit a friend in Mt. Holly, N. J., and she said, 'Mrs. Butler, why don't you take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound?' My husband said that if it did her so much good for the same trouble, I should try it. So I have taken it and it is doing me good. Whenever I feel heavy or bad, it puts me right on my feet again. I am able to do my work with pleasure and am getting strong and stout. I still take the Vegetable Compound and Liver Pills, and am using Lydia E. Pinkham's Sanative Wash."

Radio Stumped by an Elephant

Radio Stumped by an Elephant

INDIAN, ZOO ELEPHANT WHO DIDN'T TAKE TO RADIO AND HIS MAHOUT, SYED ALI.

By Milton Bronner

N. E. A. Staff Correspondent
LONDON, Aug. 28.—Radio has been stumped at last.

The greatest wonder of the age which has cut down space, cured the sick, made the deaf hear and brought the latest baseball scores to the land of the hearer, has encountered its first unmountable obstacle. In the form of an elephant.

The waves that have carried almost every known sound through the air, and many sounds hitherto unknown, have cracked under the strain of the elephant language.

And Syed Ali, native Indian mahout of Indarini, prize elephant of the London zoo, has lost all faith in modern methods.

It seems that for centuries and centuries, dating back into the dim mists of time, the Indian mahouts have inherited from father an elephant language that all the huge pachyderms understand and heed.

The principal commands in this "Hathi ki Bat"—"Tongue of the elephant"—are:

But your hay; drink your water; get up; lie down; pick it up; pull; stop that noise.

"A smart elephant, Indarini," said Ali to himself, "but not quite up to date. I'll have to teach him the new ways."

So Ali dressed himself in state clothes, with crimson headgear, and all went to a broadcasting station four miles away. He was going to give his orders to Indarini in the 1923 way—by wireless.

Did Indarini obey? He did not.

Did he heed his master's voice? Nothing doing.

Instead he went on calmly munching apples, potatoes and locust beans that kids offered him.

Zoologists now believe that elephants will not obey a disembodied voice. They must see and smell their master—and they can't do that by radio.
